

Department of Hospitality and Tourism Management
School of Business and Economics
College of Charleston

Department Chair/Associate Professor to Professor Rank. The Department of Hospitality and Tourism Management is seeking a chair able to provide vision, value and purpose to the faculty; inspire and motivate its many stakeholders; and build upon existing public/private industry partnerships. The department offers one of only 23 AACSB accredited business programs in hospitality and tourism management in the US. Faculty are committed to providing students a high quality hospitality management education in a liberal arts environment supported by a progressive series of practical, applied, and experiential learning opportunities. We want every hospitality management student to become a life-long learner who is guest focused, ethical, innovative, globally aware, computer fluent and an effective communicator. In addition, our graduates should be able to function collaboratively and comfortably in a business environment characterized by diversity, uncertainty, and rapid change.

Founded in 1770, the College of Charleston is the thirteenth oldest institution of higher education in the United States.
